ALMY TELLS HIS OWN STORY

Says the Shot That Ended Christie Warden's Life was Accidentally Fired.

While His Arm was Around Her Waist He Stumbled and Fell, and Then He Lost His Senses-His Attorney's Plea.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 18 .- A surging crowd again besieged the doors of the little court-house this morning long before they were opened and the court-room was packed as soon as yesterday. Almy, who passed a sleepless night, was brought into court at 9 o'clock, showing every evidence of the strain through which he is passing and

1 king dejected. Mr. Storey opened the ament for the defense. He said the respondent was a man of a good deal of passion and high feeling. He became infatuated with Christie Warden. She returned his love; they read and sang together: Christie mended his clothes, gave him pictures and the neck-tie on which she painted his favorite flowers. Almy was always paying special attention to Christie. They were marked more on part than was her athim. Christie became offended at him because he had attended the grange meeting and after a matual consultation he left her, still loving her. In April, at Danvers, Mass. Almy talked with Mr. Wilkins about ranch life in Texas, went to Springfield and purchased the revolvers with the intention of going to Texas. At Dorchester and elsewhere he showed his revolvers as a part of his Texas outfit. He then went back to Wilkins to see if the men from Texas had arrived. They had not, so he decided to go and see Christie. He desired to see her alone on account of the opposition of her parents, so he secreted himself. Then passed thirtythree days without meeting her. On the fatal night he went to the meeting where Christie was, expecting to see her there. Disappointed, he went to the willow where he waited till she came. Then followed his remarks already recorded. He was in a half-starved condition, with an unaccountable turn of mind; was opposed by Fannie and her mother, and committed the fatal act, killing the girl he loved best of all others. He wandered back to Warden's barn, where he remained, visiting Christie's grave by night and placing flowers Several witnesses testified to seeing and that he was going to Texas. THE MURDERER'S STORY. Frank C. Almy, the prisoner, was then sworn amid much excitement. In reply to questions of the Attorney-general, he told of his first coming to the Warden farm in July last year, and of making a contract

with Warden to work on the farm. The witness, trembling and weeping, affirmed his love for the Warden girls and said: "After Myra and Alice went West, the best of the girls remained. Christie was a very quiet girl. I loved her and thought the world of her."

Almy detailed at great length his relations with Christie, giving the impression that they were of the most friendly character and of a reciprocal nature. He described how he got Christie's picture. He found the single one of her among the negatives of a photographer to whom he had gone to have a picture of Christie and Myra copied. The latter picture he got from an

He said he loved Christie with all his heart, and thought if he could have had her she would have led him to a better life. They talked it over and she advised him to get a better education, and recommended Hanover, but lack of funds compelled him to reach the conclusion to make a short cut to professional life. Witness kissed Christie when they parted and she kissed him. She aroused passions in his breast, and had Mrs. Warden only spoken one pleasant word to him he would not have been here

He then gave an account of his travels after leaving Hanover, saying he bought his revolvers in Springfield, Mass., for the purpose of taking them with him to Texas. He had shown them to several persons, and had made no attempt to conceal them. He finally came back to Hanover for the purpose of seeing Christie alone to get her approbation and encouragement. He did not write while he was away, because he was afraid she would not get the letters. His expectations were high, and as he had no doubt her parents were against him he must see Christie alone. He arrived in Hanover on the midnight train, and went into the Warden baru, from which he could command a view of the kitchen and parlor. He thought he could see her when she went to the grange.

About a week later he went through the house one night looking at the familiar places and at the objects he and Christie had used together. He went four times in all. The last time he decided to open her door and speak to her. He did so, but her brother was lying on the bed. He did not stay all the time in the barn, but wandered in the fields, waiting nearly a month to see Christie. He told of entering the room at Mrs. Pettee's, supposed to be occupied by Christie, but was horrified to find it occupied by another woman. As the latter arose in bed he caught her by the throat and body and pushed her back. Then he told her his story and his desire to see Christie, but she said Christie was not there. Then a compact was made to keep the matter of the visit a secret. When he heard that Christie was going to the grange he went to the pasture, changed his clothes and after supper went down back of Flint's house and waited for her. Soon she came slong with others of the family and went to the grange. Then he told with previous like occurrences for the same season shows the lowest temperatures with this wave as follows: Omaha and Atlanta, one degree; Springfield, Mo., New Orleans and Mobile, two degrees; at Jacksonville, equal to the minimum record in the same decade in 1876, and at Montgomery, that of 1872.

Observations at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 18. to the grange.

SAYS IT WAS ACCIDENTAL. Almy then described the meeting with the Warden party, as has been related by several witnesses, and said that in going over the bars, with his arm about Christie's waist, they stumbled. Then he heard a noise around them. Fanny was screaming, and he fired his revolver to keep her back, not thinking to shoot her. His fail stunned him; his thought was that he must have Christie: there were sounds of voices coming nearer and nearer, and Christie was lying on the ground unconscious. In some way his revolver was fired, he did not know how. Then, when he saw that Christie was shot, he exclaimed: "My God, Christie is dead." He was dazed. He immediately left her and went to the river, then returned to the Warden barn, from where he watched the men who brought where he watched the men who brought the body of Christie to the house.

He told of visiting Christie's grave on different occasions. He could not realize that she was dead and he never thought of being captured and the feeling that he could not leave her chained him to that Almy was subjected to a sharp questioning by the Chief Justice, to whom he admitted that his statement to the Warden family that he had relatives in Savannah was false. No evidence was allowed to prove that Almy is G. H. Abbott, although the matter was broached by the Attorney-general. At the conclusion of Almy's testimony both sides rested. Arguments will be made by Attorney-general Barnard and Counsel Burleigh to-morrow beginning at 9 o'clock and they are expected to be brief. Then it will remain for the court to an-nounce the degree of murder and sentence tie prisoner.

LAID DOWN TO DIE.

Natural Gas Asphyxiates a Mother and Two Sons at Lapel, Madison County.

Special to the Indianap its Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., Nov. 18 .- The little viilage of Lapel, a few miles west of this city. Is greatly excited to-day over a disaster that befell one of its families. Mrs. Mary Huffman and her sons Newton and Peter retired last night, leaving the gas burning in the stove. Not appearing this morning the neighborhood became alarmed. Loud knocking on the doors brought no response, and when some one, impelled by an awful fear, broke in the door, a terrible sight met their eyes. The house was filled with escaping natural gas. The youngest son, Newton, aged sixteen, was dead. The mother and her eldest have, during the day, exhibited some faint signs of returning life, but so far all efforts of the physicians to recuscitate them have proved unavailing, and there remains but little hope of their ultimate recovery. The house was new and poorly ventilated. The stove was partially filled with broken bricks.

STEAMSHIP EIDER OVERDUE

Nothing Seen of Her Since Sailing from New York on the 7th of November.

Officers of the Line Not Apprehensive of Disaster, but Friends of the Passengers Are in an Anxious State-Two Ships Wrecked.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The North German Lloyd steamer Eider, Captain Bauer, which left New York Nov. 7, bound for Bremen, has not yet arrived at Southampton, her port of call in England, and some of those having friends on board of her are becoming anxious.

Late this evening nothing had been heard of the missing steamship. Merchant steamers which have arrived to-day at various points in England and elsewhere have been immediately asked for news regarding the missing vesbut all of them have replied that they have not spoken her or even seen her. The officers of the North German Lloyd Company in this city, at Southampton and at Bremen are being inundated with inquiries concerning the steamer. The officers the steamship line, it should be added, are in no way apprehensive that anything serious has happened to the Eider. They say that she is simply overdue, and that such a delay is not astonishing or unusual at this time of year. Some the interest taken in of the Eider can by the fact that idea of officials of the Lloyds have been asked to exercise in reporting her extra vigilance. and that the people in charge of the North Lloyd offices have been obliged to sit up all night and will again to-night be obliged to do the same thing, in order to answer the inquiries pouring in upon the company.

The Eider carried twenty-four saloon, twelve second-cabin and 187 steerage passengers, besides a crew of 150 men. She had a valuable cargo. The Eider was built by John Elder & Co., of Glasgow, in 1883. She is an iron ship of 2,950 tons net register, 5,200 gross, 450 feet long. 47 feet beam and 36.4 deep, fourmasted, bark-rigged and with a single pro-

Only Three of the Crew Rescued. LONDON, Nov. 18 .- News has been received here that the British bark Kate Sancton, Captain Evans, which sailed from Shields, Nov. 4, for Pensacola, was abandoned in a sinking condition in the North sea on the 11th inst. The vessel encourtered terrific gales while proceeding on her voyage, and was badly damaged by both wind and sea. Her sails were torn into shreds. Her yards and masts went by the board, and everything movable about the decks was washed away. The bark was strained so much in the raging sea that she soon commenced to take water fast, and although the crew worked with desperate energy at the pumps, they were finally compelled to give up the hopeless task and take to the boats. The men had a terrible experience and nine of them died from the effects of their long and exhausting exposure to the elements. The captain of the bark and three of his men struggled on and were at length sighted by a passing vessel and rescued. They were in a pitiable condition, but were well cared for by their rescuers, who brought them to Gravesend, where they landed and told the story of their sufferings. Took to the Boats and Were Drowned. LONDON, Nov. 18.-The captain of the American schooner William L. Bradley, which sailed from Charleston, S. C., on Oct. 5 for Weymouth, Mass., and which was abandoned on Oct. 13, in latitude 37° north, longitude 62° west, states the crew of the schooner took to the boats and was drowned.

WILL BE NO FUEL FAMINE

Enough of the Miners Return to Work to Supply Coal for Immediate Wants.

President Cummesky Says the Men Accepted the Advance to Solidify the Strike-36,000 Coal Miners in France Now Idle.

AT WASHINGTON AND CLINTON. Operators Say They Can't Compete with the Chicago Block-Coal Company.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BRAZIL, Ind., Nov. 18 .- There is not much stir in mining matters here of late. Everything is running smoothly. C. B. Reddie & Son resumed work this morning with a full force of men. The Eureka Company at Carbon is also working its mines at full capacity, turning out several flats of coal per day. The fuel famine in this immediate vicinity is a thing of the past. The talked-of freeze-out for the want of coal has gone glimmering, as the mines which are already in operation can supply the domestic trade. The thing wished for now is an amicable settlement of all differences between the larger companies and their men. While the smaller companies give employment to several men, there are quite a number of worthy miners idle, which lessens trade in all lines of

The decision recently rendered by the United Mine-workers, permitting all men to work who received the advance price is a good step, yet this by no means indicates a settlement of the strike, as many companies, the principal ones, too, remain fixed and determined, and declare they will not give the advance. J. A. Crouse returned from Terre Haute, this evening, where he has been in conference with officers Kennody and Cummesky, and reports these men as saying that the recent divergence from what was agreed upon, permitting miners to work wherever the price was paid, was to solidify the strike, and that they are not weakening. Competitors with the block-coal company in Chicago markets say they will not pay the price, therefore the Washington and Clinton mines are closed. Ehrlich & Go.'s men will commence work to-morrow. These men think by permitting those pay the price to work they can secure the co-operation of the executive board. It they succeed in doing this miners not at work can be cared for.

Soft-Coal Scare at Chicago. CHICAGO, Nov. 18. - Chicago is now seriously threatened with a soft-coal famine. Hotels, factories and other places using much fuel have been put to great inconvenience because of a lack of soft coal, and the cold weather has intensified the inconvenience by creating a still greater demand. "There is such a scarcity of soft coal in Chicago at the present time," said cago gets nearly all of its steam coal from that district, and the scarcity began as soon as the strike began. This scarcity of steam coal has led to the use of a large amount of domestic coal for steam purposes, and in that way all soft coal has become very scarce.

POLES BADLY FRIGHTENED.

Slept in a Coal Pit Under Arms to Prevent Being Driven Off. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 18.—The situation at the Alum Cave mine remained unchanged to-day. The Polanders are still there, but no attempt has been made to put them to work. To-day noon was the time given by the committee of citizens for the removal of the men, but when the committee called at the mine at noon General Manager Seifert could not be found. Superintendent Gilmore told the committee be did not know where Mr. Seifert was, but sent a telegram to his Chicago-address, saying the committee would wait until he arrived there before proceeding to drive the Po-landers out of the county. The committee reported that about 300 citizens had gathered at a point about a mile from the mine. A reporter was permitted to be present and he says they are a determined set of men who will not stop until the Polanders—about sixty—have been removed. The Polanders are badly frightened and slept in a pit last night, all well armed.

36,000 ON STRIKE,

Coal Miners of France Now Engaged in a Bitter Fight with Operators. Paris, Nov. 18 .- Dispatches from various places in the department of Padecalais show that the striking coal miners are gaining many accessions to their ranks. The strikers now number 36,000, and no doubt is entertained that in a very short time a majority of the men still remaining at work will quit and join the strikers. The authorities are taking every precaution to guard against disorders, and though in some places the miners display a very bitter feeling, there has as yet been Mississippi valley over the Alleghenies, and has no serious disturbance of the peace, only a lost a little of its intensity. It continues to contrivial outbreak here and there that has speedily been suppressed. As in all labor troubles in France, there is danger the socialistic element may incite rioting, and, as a matter of fact, prominent Socialists are at work among the discontented and striking miners, spreading their lawless tenets. They are closely watched, however, and upon the least indication of a general resistence to the law they will speedily be lodged in jail. To prevent the patrol appointed by the strikers from approaching the pits in their endeavors to induce the workers to quit and also to guard against an attack either against the men working, or upon the property of the mine-owners, strong detachments of cavalry and infantry have been stationed about the various pits. The presence of the troops, it is among the discontented and striking fantry have been stationed about the various pits. The presence of the troops, it is believed, will have the effect of keeping the strikers as a body from making a riotous demonstration. This is the third day of the strike and both the miners and their employers are confident of victory. No hint of concession is made by either side and from present indications the struggle will be a long and bitter one.

Compositors on Strike. BERLIN, Nov. 18 .- A number of the striking compositors of Breslau have been sentenced to pay various penalties for a breach of contract in stopping work. The magistrates of several towns have given notice that strikers menacing non-strikers or visiting their houses will be punished with the utmost severity of the law. The demands of the Nuremburg compositors for an increase of wages have been lowered 5 per cent. The Bavarian War Minister has refused to receive a deputation of compositors who wished to ask him to withdraw soldiers who are working in the places of the strikers.
